Getaway Car Believed Discovered; Police Press Probe

By Leonard Zahn
Special to the Bulletin

BOSTON, Jan. 18.—(UP)—A stolen Cadillac sedan, which may have been one of the getaway cars used in last night's $1,500,000 holdup, was found today in the garage of an unoccupied house in suburban Newton.

The discovery came soon after the search for the nine Halloween-masked bandits was spurred by a promise of a reward of $100,000 by Brink's Inc., the armored car service that was robbed.

$10 Million Oil Refinery For Winnipeg

Plans for construction of a $10,000,000 dollar oil refinery at Winnipeg, having a production capacity of 10,000 barrels daily, were announced by Imperial Oil Limited today.

Company president G. L. Stewart said in a statement released here that plans call for a start on the project this spring, with completion of the new plant set for May, 1951.

Mr. Stewart said crude oil from Alberta will be moved by rail or branch pipe line to the new refinery from a take-off point on the Inter-Provincial line at Gresham, Manitoba.

He said engineering designs for the new plant have been underway for some time.

Contracts for the work will be shortly and initial work will start in the spring as soon as weather conditions permit.

Mr. Stewart said that when operating, the refinery will employ 175 men.

He added that lower prices for petroleum products can be expected in areas served by increased refinery capacity, together with the new pipeline from Edmonton to Superior, Wisconsin.

Vitamin D Lack Seen Cause of Death Cycle

By Stanley Burke
Bulletin Staff Writer

Solution to mysterious cycle of death which for 200 years has puzzled naturalists may be on the way through experiments of Prof. William Howard, head of zoological department of University of Alberta, who believes it is linked with the ultra violet "vitamin D" rays of the sun.

His theory also appears to cast light on why certain human diseases such as rickets, measles and whooping cough occur in regular cycles.

Like most scientists, Prof. Howard is cautious in describing his theory and its implications. He will say only that it appears to dovetail with the facts in describing Canada's "cyclic" wildlife population.

Populations of many species of Canadian birds and fur-bearing animals appear to vary in cycles. This fact long has puzzled hunters, trappers and northern Indians.

Prof. Howard calls this "the periodic or cyclic" phenomenon of the human population. He says it is the "premier problem in Canadian wildlife conservation." (Continued on Page 2)

Yugoslav trains were stopped at the point where they had been crossing the border to traverse the corner of Romania.

OVERDOSES AVAILABLE

Doctor Gives Patients Drug for Mercy Death

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(UPI)—A Park Avenue physician said today he occasionally provides incurable patients suffering intense pain with large supplies of morphine, advising them that "if you take the whole bottle you might not wake up."

Dr. A. L. Goldwater said he left the morphine doses handy at the bedside of certain patients many times in "20 to 25 years of practice."

The elderly doctor elaborated on statements which he made yesterday at the annual meeting of the Balkan Society of America in which he defended the so-tion of Dr. Hermann N. Sander of Manchester, N.H., who has been indicted for murder in the most of "a similar" to the case of Dr. Sander.

"If that be murder, make the case of Dr. Goldwater," he said.

He said he would tell the patient that "if you take one tablet it will reduce the pain, and two will put you to sleep, and if you take the whole bottle you won't wake up."

The Society pledged its support of Dr. Sander and of Carol Peight, Stamford, Conn., who is facing a second-degree murder trial on charges of shooting her cancer-ridden father.

Goldwater said that in treating incurable cases where the patient was near death he would give a week's supply of morphine tablets to the patient's bed.

He said he would tell the patient that "if you take one tablet it will reduce the pain, and two will put you to sleep, and if you take the whole bottle you won't wake up."

Shuffle Sends Gibson to Court

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—(UPI)—Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent today announced a cabinet shuffle, including the appointment of his chief aide as minister of citizenship and immigration.

Walter Harris, who also held the parliamentary seat for Grey Bruce, Ont., became the first minister to the new portfolio, created during the last session.

In addition to the cabinet changes, Mr. St. Laurent announced several Quebec and Ontario judicial appointments.

The announcement was no surprise. Cabinet observers had been expecting it for some time.

OTHER CHANGES
The other changes were: Mines and Resources Minister Colin Gibson appointed a member of the Ontario appeal court.

Revenue Minister J. J. McCann retained his present portfolio and also received the new department of mines and technical surveys.

Reconstruction Minister Robert Winters was given the additional task of handling the resources and development department.

Helen Maybank, parliamentary assistant to Gibson, and MP for Winnipeg south center, will be parliamentary assistant to the Mines and Technical Surveys minister.

Red Invasion Plans Blocked

TAPEI, Formosa, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The Nationalist Chinese commander of Hainan Island reported tonight that Chiang Kai-shek's air force and navy had made the impending Red invasion of the big island impossible.

The Hainan ground commander said the two Nationalist services had sunk more than 2,000 invasion craft (mostly junks) moored by the Reds on Luchow peninsula opposite Hainan.

He claimed his own forces were mopping up the remainder of some 17,000 Communist guerrillas who have been in control of central and the western portion of the big south China island.

Canton and Shanghai were alerted yesterday in stepped-up air operations against the Communist mainland.

(Hong Kong dispatches said the Nationalist Mustang fighter-bombers were sweeping over the city and envoys in waves, hitting and strafing targets in the city and shipping in the Pearl river. Chinese press reports said 23 civilians were killed and scores wounded.)

Michael Denies Toronto Rumor On Coach Job

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—(CP)—Eddie Michael denied today that he will coach Toronto Maple Leafs of the Ontario Rugby Football Union next year.

"I am with Ottawa, I'll stick to the Rough Riders," Michael, Rough Riders line coach and star middle wing, told the Evening Citizen in a telephone interview from his home in Kingston, Ont.

A Toronto report last night said Don MacKenzie had resigned as coach of the Rough Riders and would be succeeded by Michael.

CALL IT Treason

"The Top Suspense Story Of The Year" is what, leading Canadian and American critics call the new Bulletin's new novel, "Call It Treason," by George Howe.

It starts tomorrow.

"Call It Treason" was chosen out of 2,000 stories to be awarded the largest non-commercial prize on record for a single novel. It's a moving adventure story involving danger and courage which stirs readers to the core.

"Call It Treason" is the story of three German prisoners of war who volunteer for service behind their own lines, for the Allied army.

Based on a real episode of the American Army's counter-espionage during the invasion of Germany, it's a superbly dramatic story of courageous action, and faith.

PICTURED in Los Angeles court as the was granted divorce from Canadian Fred Jackson is actress Nancy Kelly. She testified state stayed away from home days at a time while unpaid bills stacked up.

Canada Stepping Out As Big Fighter Force

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—(CP)—Canada will assume a relatively big fighter role in continental and Atlantic Pact defence plans.

Expansion of her standing fighter strength is slated for the months and years ahead to fit her for immediate action in this role, recent developments indicate.

A chain of interceptor-fighter RCAF squadrons flying both long-range and short-range aircraft is being developed. So far only one regular interceptor squadron now in existence, it is No. 419 squadron, based at St. Hubert, Que., near Montreal.

Plans to form another are being announced and more are expected to follow over a period of years. To back these there are six or seven reserve squadrons around the country.

The trend towards greater emphasis on standing strength ready for instant action is underlined by Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, chief of staff of the RCAF, in a review of 1949 RCAF activities which he said were far from average and reserve members in a monthly news letter.

"For the first time we were able seriously to turn our attention to building up the operational element of the force. This was possible only because of the emphasis placed on building a supporting framework immediately following the war."

"Our original concept was of a force to consist primarily of a nucleus body, able to expand rapidly in event of war. We now see, in the light of the changing world situation, that we must get further than that."

"The nucleus concept still holds good, but the point where it will be brought to the point where it is able to bring into immediate action those forces required for the initial defence of Canada. This service is being brought to this state."

"But in addition the RCAF must be brought to the point where it is able to bring into immediate action those forces required for the initial defence of Canada. This service is being brought to this state."

New Liberation of Europe Seen Impossible in War

By John L. Steele

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(BUP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee has been informed that the U.S. possesses spectacular new weapons, including self-aiming anti-aircraft guns, capable of creating an almost impenetrable defence against supersonic planes.

The information was in a report sent to his committee colleagues by Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., R-Mass., a World War II combat officer and now a member of the army reserve.

He said guided missile developments would make military operations like the Normandy invasion impossible in the future. He underscored the necessity of doing this, as a World War II combat officer and now a member of the army reserve.

He said the army's new anti-aircraft guns can detect planes flying 1,000 miles an hour at 80,000 feet while they still are 175 miles away, giving defending forces a full 10 minutes warning to ready their anti-aircraft guns and get interceptors into the air.

As a defence against surprise attack by low-flying bombers, he said, the army has its new "sky-sweeper" gun which literally makes them invisible.

French Envoy Writes Of Canada

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—(CP)—A book interpreting Canada, to the people of France has been written by Francique Gay, former French ambassador to Canada.

The 65-year-old journalist-diplomat represented France in Ottawa from April, 1946, to June, 1949. He dedicated the 200-page book, written in French, to St. Hubert, W. L. Mackenzie King, former Canadian prime minister, "who for 27 years presided over the destinies of Canada, and who always strove to develop Franco-Canadian friendship."

Mr. Gay says in the book that at the famous Quebec conference of 1942 Mr. King was responsible for getting the late President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill to recognize the fighting French forces or the French committee of national liberation.

He said there is a "strong feeling" in military circles that Russia is lagging behind the United States in guided missiles but there is no "precise, factual basis for this feeling."

He did not contend that the nation is absolutely secure against air attack but he said it is difficult to see how one could succeed where the new weapons are available. He said that applies to supersonic as well as more conventional planes.

He said the army's new anti-aircraft guns can detect planes flying 1,000 miles an hour at 80,000 feet while they still are 175 miles away, giving defending forces a full 10 minutes warning to ready their anti-aircraft guns and get interceptors into the air.

Full Employment Is U.K. Labor Pledge

Is Labelled 'Supreme Aim' in Election Platform Manifesto

By Alan Harvey

LONDON, Jan. 18.—(CP)—The Labor government today made full employment its "supreme aim" in a bid for five more years of power.

The phrase "Full employment" occurred seven times in the first three pages of a 48-page manifesto entitled "Let us win through together"—the first final draft of policy to be issued by a major party contesting the Feb. 23 general election.

"No doubt there have been mistakes, but judge on what basis you will, by the standard of life of the British body of citizens, by employment, by inequity of serious industrial disputes, by the stability of the nation, by social security, by any fair comparison, the British people have done an infinitely better job than was done after the First World War."

LITTLE CHANGE SEEN
The new document unveiled at a 3 years conference, differs little from the Socialist platform outlined last spring. The party again pledges itself to full employment, social security and fair shares for all.

The emphasis on nationalization is less pronounced, but the only major change from previous policy is that industrial insurance will be "mutually owned by policyholders themselves" instead of by private shareholders.

New industries slated for public ownership if Labor obtain a second mandate are best-managed manufacture and sugar refining, all oil, all suitable minerals, water supplies, cold-storage facilities and railway transport and importation.

A BETTER JOB
In reviewing the government's record since Labor took office in July, 1945, the manifesto said:

New Houses Aid Economy Mansur Says

By FORBES RHUDE

MONTREAL, Jan. 18.—(CP)—The prospect which home building helps to maintain can't be measured only in terms of that five-room bungalow you have just put up.

You know, of course, that after you put your $10,000, more or less, into circulation via cash and mortgage, that you're not really through and more are $100,000, window shades, probably a lawn mower, new stove and refrigerator, and so on, and so on, and so on.

But there's something more. D. B. Mansur, president of the federal government's Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, said:

GOOD THINGS TO SAY
Every five-room bungalow that is built involves an expenditure of about $100 for roads, sewer and other services, and another $1000 for schools. In approximate terms, 20,000 small individual residential units means about $20,000,000 of construction in the form of roads, sewers, and another $200,000,000 in schools.

Mansur had some good things to say, or mostly good, to say regarding housing prospects.

For 1949 Canada will show more new houses completed in relation to its population than any other country; and residential construction in 1950 will probably be about as great.

The cost of a house to the homeowner has not increased appreciably over the last year. In fact, for the larger and more expensive houses, there is an indication of a rather lower price, chiefly because of effective demand for this type of housing seems to be lessening.

Aid For China
WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The Economic Cooperation Administration disclosed today that it has given Nationalist China $400,000 in additional foreign aid.

The aid is part of a $1,000,000 program of economic and technical assistance to the Nationalist government in China.

Millions May Starve
In China this Year

HONG KONG, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Millions of peasants face starvation in Red China this year.

Upwards of 40,000,000 persons, by Communist government estimate, are in famine areas.

Some 8,000,000 right now are desperately hungry. In East China alone 16,000,000 may starve to death.

Floods, crop pests and plagues are blamed for the great food shortage.

The Communist state administration in Peking is mobilizing relief agencies. Its directive is available here in Hong Kong.

The directive says a fifth of the cultivated land in East China crops are being flooded. That wiped out crops on 800,000 acres.

DRAINS OFF FOOD
The Manchurian barrier agreement with Russia is draining off much food from North China. Under the agreement food is to be exchanged for Russian manufactured goods. Manchuria was unable to meet its quota. So farming areas below the Great Wall are making up the Manchurian deficit.

The Communist budget for 1950 calls for the government to receive 4.4 per cent of its revenue from food levies. The tax takes away peasants to surrender an average of 20 per cent of their harvest.

The Chinese Communist government will support 3,000,000 civil servants and soldiers this year. The Reds say it takes 30 Chinese farmers to support one soldier and his family.

INCREASED BY EMBARGO
The Chinese food crisis in 1950 will be increased by the Red embargo of all food imports into China. The embargo is to encourage the Red's meagre foreign exchange for more important industrial objectives.

Parley Urged To Stimulate Export Sales

SASKATOON, Jan. 18.—(CP)—John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of the Commons for Saskatchewan constituency of Lake Centre, said last night that an aroused public opinion should force the government to formulate plans for solving Canada's trade problems.

Mr. Diefenbaker said there were three things which his party felt should be done:

1. A British Commonwealth and Empire conference should be called after the United Kingdom general election Feb. 23.

2. Unjustified embargoes against exports to the United States should be removed.

3. Longtime credits should be extended to valuable trade customers of the past.

4. Government-controlled marketing should end and there should be an extension of producers' boards.

5. Floor prices should be established to prevent prices from dropping to bottom levels.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that for the last 18 months danger signals in the field of trade have been apparent to everyone except the federal cabinet.

FIGURES DECLINE
In the first 10 months of 1949, the latest figures Mr. Diefenbaker had available—exports dropped $60,000,000 and Canada's favorable trade balance fell to $200,000,000. With the drop in trade, unemployment was increasing.

"Present day events bear a striking resemblance to the period from 1928 to 1930," said Mr. Diefenbaker. "As now, farmers' markets were being lost and unemployment spreading. For three years the Conservatives asked for action by the Liberal party in power, but little or nothing was done to meet the threatening situation."

food deficit will not be eliminated for years to come.

Final
An estate plan, once set down in a Will, is often thought of as final when as a matter of fact it will need periodic revision. Births and deaths in the family, children's marriages, a change in your assets or the set up of your business may render your plan obsolete to a greater or lesser extent. In seeking practical and workable amendments to your estate plan from time to time, the Toronto General Trusts offers you a consultative service based on a broad experience of estates administration. This service includes a careful review of your assets and a re-estimation of your tax liabilities. We invite your inquiries.

The Lady Was Steamy

Let's spin the sports sphere: Lady phones ("No, I won't tell you my name") to roast me about belittling remarks (she called them) re those reasonably close overseas puck was being turned in by Mercury. "Our boys are doing alright," she wants it known. "Okay, okay. So our boys ARE doing alright. Certainly five triumphs and a tie in six starts looks pretty impressive in the win-loss column anyway. Add there's a no-place-like-home debut: Whipper Billy Watson, who came this way just before Christmas with the razzlin' troupe, is back home in the Toronto area. And there the burly fans don't raise any other grunter in the same class as 'The Whippah.' Still I don't think Al (Mr. Murder) Mills would have so much trouble handling the eater's best 'holts,' should they get at it kidding on the square for a change.

Remember when Henry Martell bowed out of the U.S. amateur in the first round in 1946? Sniper who gunned him to the sidelines as quickly (count was two-up) was 'Smiley' Quick, then public links king of the U.S. These times Quick, now a pro, like Martell, picks off some of the prize money on the Gold Trail. He had a $570 payday after the L.A. Open, finishing in a dead-heat for eighth place.

Looks like Bud Jackson, speedy former winger with Maple Leaf Juniors, will slick with Minneapolis Millers of the U.S. Hockey circuit.

Broadway at 43rd Street

Betting was off just five per cent at the Tropical Park (Miami, Fla.) meeting that closed Monday. Thats not bad, chums. . . Well, whaddya know? Johnny McCormack, west-end puckster who signed a pro contract with Toronto Maple Leafs a few days back, has been in eastern Canada a half-dozen years by now, but never had seen the sights of New York until he made his first trip with Leafs to play at Madison Square Garden a week back. At that there'll be something new for him to oggle. The time the gangling Edmonton forward heads into the Big City, providing he wants to do a little sight-seeing. . . This is the first time since 1935 that Ed (Can I Ask Question?) Morris hasn't played winter ball in the off-season. Of course there's a good reason, considering there's almost no 'winter ball' played hereabouts, especially these past few weeks. Always before the catcher—handyman of the Big Four loop spent the off-season at what was his California home.

"I'll make up for it by going to the 'Y,'" the voluble Morris proclaims.

Could it be that Pancho Gonzales, the tennisier, is beginning to catch on where even the great Jack Kramer is concerned. The ace recruit to the pro net circuit this season has creased Kramer four of his last six shots at him.

Pretty Good Odds, These

Brother, can you spare 40 cents (inflation, you know) for a cuppa coffee? Here's the daily double of the 1949 Canadian racing season popped one bright afternoon at Winnipeg when Cute Helen dropped out of the clouds in the first race and a hide called Jay Vesp came home to the eager punters in the second. Payoff was—hang on—a fat $1,703.40. . . After a slow start Jack Meldrum has worked his way into a tie with like Hildebrand as top point getter of Los Angeles Monarchs of the PCHL. Monarchs played something like 12 straight games on the road to start season and did no good, individually or collectively, during this time. Oh yes, Meldrum's 26 points include a dozen goals. There must be a moral in this current 'lofty' position Chicago defenseman Bill Gadsby has attained as head axeman of the NHL penalty parade, particularly when one realizes what went on behind the scenes during the last off-season.

Gadsby's Hawk bosses figured the big fellow would be much more effective as a socker if he played it a little rougher and tougher. Result: young Mr. Gadsby was instructed to take boxing lessons while back home in Calgary.

Result, the second: young Mr. Gadsby has been thumbed a total of 93 minutes to this point in the 1949-50 season.

Rockets Shoot Here For Weekend Games

The 'biggest' thing in basketball today? Why it's the amazing thing used during the course of a game—the referee's whistle.

Of late there has been a growing demand that the whistle be taken out of basketball. Those behind the move do not, of course, intend that the game be played, sans officials.

But there is a ballooning conviction that the referee's pages of play, resulting often from overzealous officiating, are slowing sporting basketball as a spectator sport.

Anyway the belief will come in for further testing atVarsity gym at the weekend when coach Dean Jewett's Mavericks meet Bill Price's Pioneers and mauliee taclee Meadors, Varsity Guards, Bears Friday and Saturday nights, respectively.

Rockets add up to the record those. So far this season the south-easterners have played 17-7 games. So far this season they have won—37 games. Pretty hard to improve on that, right?

Hogan Tired For Playoff

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Golf star Ben Hogan was pictured yesterday as "awfully tired" on the eve of his 18-hole playoff with Sam Snead for the victory laurels of the Los Angeles Open tournament.

EAC Grads With AHL Leaders

A trio of one time Edmonton Athletic Club Junior players—Bob Carle, Johnny Chad and Jack McGill—are with the leaders in the American Hockey league point derby, according to latest statistics.

Carle, with 59 points, including 22 goals, is running second behind Cleveland Baron teammate Les Douglas. Litter has a seven-point edge on Carle.

Chad (54 points) and McGill (51), both with Providence Reds, are running third and fourth respectively.

Leaders follow:

Douglas, Cleveland	63	22	85
Carle, Cleveland	59	22	81
McGill, Providence	51	17	68
Chad, Providence	54	17	71
Baron, Cleveland	53	18	71

Snad on the other hand, was described as in robust health as the two headliners of the sport spent a comparatively easy day before their belated duel at Riviera Country Club.

The rivals and the expected gallery of thousands, meanwhile, got a break from the weather mat. He switched signals from a previous forecast and predicted clear sky and no rain today.

A mere five miles with the winner in the playoff, but more pointed is the rivalry between the two and the attempt by Hogan to cap his initial comeback tournament in triumph.

Billy injured in a highway crash 11 months ago, Hogan aimed the fans with his performance in the Los Angeles tournament. He shot rounds of 73-69-69-69 for a 72-hole score of 291.

He had the trophy and the first prize of $2,600 all but tucked in his pocket. Then Snad rumbled in from the rear with a last-round five-under-par 66, the lowest of the tournament, and knocked the score with a spectacular 18-foot putt on the 18th green.

That sent the pair into a playoff scheduled for last Wednesday, but this was rained out. The duel had to be postponed until after the Bing Crosby tournament.

Snad continued in the forefront in this affair, and would appear to be a four-way tie for leading position.

Hogan, playing one day with flannel pajamas under his usual golfing attire, never was a usual observer. He was "spotted" in physically and mentally. His 18-hole score of 72, nine strokes back of Snad, proved it.

'Hero' Hart Triumphs Over Burly 'Villain'

A crowd of 2,100 freezing fans went through the doors at the Stock Pavilion last night to see popular Stu Hart "rattle his way to a win over Big Ben Morgan from Tennessee."

It was just last week that Morgan, a former professional wrestler, won an unpopular decision which warranted a re-match between the two.

Even before the gong had sounded to start the bout last night, Morgan raced over to Hart's corner and started pounding him in an attempt to impress the fans of his side.

Fifty seconds after they started grappling Morgan went the first fall by supposedly chocking Hart into oblivion. Spitting and coughing, Hart came back as usual to win the next two falls and take the match much to the enjoyment of the fans.

Paul Pete Manzoff and Dan O'Connor of Boston gave a real crowd-pleasing performance in the semifinals.

O'Connor, who is rated as one of the "dirtiest" men in the business, won the first fall after shaking Manzoff up with a series of punches and flips.

To top of the event they threw each other out of the ring twice, and one time O'Connor landed in the lap of Dr. Dods, president of the local wrestling and booking commission.

In the special event, the Cardiff Giant made his appearance short as he disposed of Stan Mysajek in the lap of Dr. Dods, president of the local wrestling and booking commission.

The preliminary saw Lloyd Layton triumph over Nick Albert, who made his first ring appearance in Edmonton.

Officials Say Billy Taylor Can Play for Himself

TORONTO, Jan. 18.—(CP)—Less than two years ago, Billy Taylor was read out of organized hockey on charges of associating with a gambler and betting on a game in which his team was not involved.

Yesterday Billy the Kid was back on skates, ready to play "unorganized" hockey in his hometown of Oshawa, Ont., and any hockey player in good standing is free to step on the ice with him without fear of suspension.

Hockey officials from Montreal to Regina, told of Billy's planned comeback, expressed varying opinions with varying degrees of heat, but eventually reached the unanimous conclusion that they would not do anything about it.

As it turned out, they couldn't have done much.

Taylor, one of the greatest players in the game, remains out of the National Hockey League, its minor professional affiliates and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, which governs organized amateur hockey across the Dominion and has close ties with the NHL.

But the Oshawa Commercial league is an independent organization which doesn't recognize NHL. Taylor, practicing in preparation for a season with the Billy Taylor Sporting Goods entry in the OCL, can't be prevented from playing. The worst organized hockey could do is to prohibit players under its jurisdiction from performing in the same league. Last night, organized hockey decided not to bother.

"I don't care," said Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL and the man who expelled Taylor. "Campbell had expressed the opinion that amateur officials should investigate the status of any of their players who might play in a league in which Taylor was active."

At Pickard, president of the CAHA, had passed the ball back to Campbell. Interviewed at his home in Regina, he said the CAHA would take no action unless it received a formal complaint from the NHL.

Mintos Bombarded

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Jan. 18.—(CP)—Flin Flon Bombers last night gave warning of their Northern Saskatchewan Junior Hockey league intentions by bombarding Prince Albert Mintos 18-4.

The victory moves Flin Flon only two points behind the league-leading Mintos and increases their lead over the third-place Humboldt Indians to four points.

Bombers took a 2-0 lead in the first period, increasing it to 4-1 in the second, then rapped in six goals without a reply in the final session.

Ask UK Open Grain Marts

LONDON, Jan. 18.—(Reuters)—The select committee on estimates, parliament's "watchdog" on government expenditure, recommended today that the Food Ministry not delay a decision on re-opening London and Liverpool grain exchanges. They were closed when the ministry became sole importer of grain at the outbreak of the war.

The National Federation of Corn Traders has pressed for freedom to participate in business for certain sterling-area countries and to buy for export in order to re-establish London and Liverpool as focal points of the grain trade for western Europe.

The select committee said today it has been impressed by the fact that markets in view of opening these markets. "In view of the advantages of retaining our pre-war position in the International grain trade, decisions should be reached without further delay."

SHOPPING GUIDE

New Cukes on Way For Shopping Soon

By Bea Thrifty

This lucky year we're augmenting our winter menus with fresh vegetables courtesy of American producers and local hot-house proprietors.

We're accepting the presence of field tomatoes, celery, crisp lettuce, avocados, cabbage, parsley, cauliflower in such with wide-eyed wonder. For simply years we've foregone the pleasures of most of these fresh vegetables during the nasty of winter season.

Embargo shifts this summer answered our problem. Right at this very moment it's even possible to buy mushrooms, and cucumbers are expected to return to the fare next week.

Cucumbers is a bit better now but conditions will improve as the season progresses. Sprouts, available in fresh form, supplies will be filling the counter shelves in their natural state soon also.

Fears Accentuated By Parents' Tactics

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

When children suffer fears which seem ridiculous and incomprehensible to their parents, it may be because they have become attached to some unpleasant experience, or have, by association, become connected with some other real fear-making object.

WHY GROW OLD

First Re-Actions Should Guide Beauty Attitude

By Josephine Lowman

First experiences always carry a tremendous impact, whether they are happy or unhappy. No pair of high heels is quite as wonderful as the first pair you had at the age of 15 or 16.

There's a great red heart around that Feb. 14 date on my calendar. And here's a note you may give to your husband's wife or send to your best—and second-best—babe.

Start of sending your woman a letter, or even a note, with wings and pointed toward heaven. That's the more common way of expressing your love for a woman. It's a beautiful thing.

TELEPHONE-HAPPY office girls are hane of boss-man's existence. Girlish giggles, coy conversations and date discussions don't bring in nine-to-five routine. Many local employers are resigned to use of their office as a date-bureau.

PRETTY FACE pleases boss-man but operation make-up doesn't. All-important things like subdued make-up, simple hair-styling with attractive but suitably plain clothes to match add to a good impression on the employer. But office is not a boudoir.

NOTHING DISCOURAGES an office caller more than a disinterested greeting from a receptionist busy reading, drinking, chewing gum. These sins are high on pet peeve list of employers. Boss-man shouldn't be dubbed "Scrooge" if he doesn't approve.

BOSS MAY approve of this secretarial sin but his wife won't, nor will customer-caller. Chatting frivolously with an employer before strangers is essence of bad business taste. Perfect secretary remains impersonal, but pleasant at all times.

MAKING THEIR home here are newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Patrick Ball who were married recently at St. Anthony's pro-cathedral. Bride is former Aileen Jorgenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Jorgenson. Mr. Ball is son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ball.

Century Fashion Festival Current Idea in London

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Dream of fashion expert Doris Langley Moore, is a fashion museum—including reference library, pictures and actual clothes of every era.

And what better time to open this gallery of costume, than the 1951 Festival of Britain, says Mrs. Moore hopefully.

"It would be an inspiration to our fashion industry, a history lesson for our schools and a valuable source-places for overseas visitors."

NO WASP WAIST
Mrs. Moore's new book, "A Woman in Fashion," explodes a few of the age-old theories about grand-ma's waist.

"The waist of the Victorian was not 18 inches, it was at least 26. The smallest waist in Mrs. Moore's collection is 21 inches."

Reason why the Victorian waist looked so much smaller was the bustled bust and hips.

Other exploded myths are that Victorian hips and bosoms were rounder and that shoulders sloped more delicately.

"The former," says Mrs. Moore, "was due to bustled corset-like corsets, the latter to skirt cut."

"The English look of the 1930s has become exaggerated by the use of the answers to the problem of making women happy."

Hats are styled to fit the head comfortably. Contours range from demure helmets to spires, tiny and trim or wide and ruffled. Level-headed look vies with the side-swept, giving plenty of opportunity for choice of a becoming style.

Because of a growing trend toward short, loose, attention tends to focus on back interest, achieved either through the hair silhouette or placing of the trimming.

Backbone of the season's styles is the fashionable head of the Miss type but with silks inside. Shantung, Bakou, Soak, Balmain and Togo fabrics such as organdy, pique, velvet and tulle are also important. Other close or elaborate trims with straw.

Colors are heaved to be harmonious with costume—natural, sunny, golden tones, red, plum, green, soft yellow—all good with navy, black or grey.

Elizabeth House Guild Elects Mrs. J. M. Forbes

Mrs. J. M. Forbes was elected to head Elizabeth House Guild at the recent annual meeting. She succeeds Mrs. H. L. Weir.

Successful year's work was reported by retiring officers.

During 1949 the chapel and house were covered with asbestos shingles, the roads, windows and door frames were repaired and painted, and a porch was built.

These improvements were made possible by funds raised by the Guild through tea, bazaars, coffee parties, rummage sales, donations from groups, and private contributions.

HONORARY OFFICERS
Mrs. W. F. Harlow and Mrs. Frank Ford were named honorary president and honorary vice-president.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Philip Baker, first vice-president; Mrs. H. P. Leffroy, second vice-president; Mrs. N. Kilburn, secretary; Mrs. C. Lister, treasurer; Mrs. R. C. Marshall, finance committee; Mrs. P. L. Doherty and Mrs. H. P. Leffroy, fundraising committee; Mrs. P. L. Doherty, Mrs. W. G. Hinds, Mrs. H. Spill, Mrs. J. A. L. South and Mrs. N. H. MacMillan, advisory committee.

"Yellow Me" is a new stocking which has a clock that climbs several inches up the back of the leg, in place of the hank. The clock is said to have a sterilizing effect on insectoid ankles, as well as adding a decorative touch.

"Lacely," the name of another stocking, apparently takes its name from the fact that the color is translucent and clear. It is new technique called the "measured stretch" makes them look extra sheer.

Giving the effect of well-known legs are "Dancing Twink," which give extra-free rhythms. The manicurist of this stocking claim they are especially welcome for those ladies who say they cannot keep a straight seam.

Legend Tells How
Twilight Was Born

Today Twi-Chief wants to tell you one of the most beautiful legends of the Indian people. It is the tale of how twilight came to be. It is a story of love and sacrifice.

Many years ago, in a land where the sun and moon were still young, there lived a beautiful girl named Twi-Chief. She was the daughter of a great chief and was loved by many.

One day, Twi-Chief was walking alone in a forest. She saw a beautiful boy named Twi-Chief. He was the son of a great chief and was loved by many.

They fell in love and were married. But their parents were angry with them and wanted them to be separated.

Uncle Wiggily's
Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily was a very old man. He had a long white beard and a very large nose. He lived in a small house in a village.

One day, Uncle Wiggily was sitting in his armchair. He was reading a book. A young girl named Twi-Chief came in. She was the daughter of a great chief and was loved by many.

Uncle Wiggily told her a story. It was a story of love and sacrifice. It was a story of how twilight came to be.

Twilight was born. It was a beautiful day. The sun and moon were still young. They were in love and were married.

But their parents were angry with them and wanted them to be separated. They fell in love and were married. But their parents were angry with them and wanted them to be separated.

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Attention, New York bistro! Humphrey Bogart is heading back to the Big Town. The film tough guy and wife Lauren Bacall plan to leave for New York later this month. But, he adds, "I'm going to stay out of that place," meaning the night club where he had his headlined tussle with a pianist girl. And he's leaving his panda at home with son Stephen.

Bogart was amused by the public prediction by a star that he would be involved in a night club fracas in March and again in August. "How do you like that?" he said. "I get into one mess after another. Life, and now I'm noted for being a brat."

STAR LIMPSES—Irene Dunne leaves for home a month after she finishes "Come Share My Love," probably in March. One of her resolutions for the New Year will be good news for her fans: She says she'll do more picture-making in the future.

Dana Andrews, son of a Protestant minister, is playing a Roman Catholic priest in his current picture. Incidentally, the actor plans to move his mother out here from Texas this year.

Is this a commentary on the state picture of 1949 was a remake, "John Sings Again."

Bette Davis reported to the RKO lot this week to begin story sessions of her first picture as a free-lancer, "The Story of A Divorce."

RACQUET-GAZERS—Peter Lawford and Sharmay Douglas drew stars at the Jack Krassman's luncheon. Jeanne Marlier, other notables applauding the tennis pro were the Robert Taylor, the Richard Conte, the Ricardo Montalban.

Finger Rogers, the charlatan dancer who made good, has been asked for a magazine to illustrate an article on the dance. Seems the cure is awaiting the continent again, whether Ed Atriale likes it or not.

Heroic Star In Toronto—(CP)—TORONTO, Jan. 18.—(CP)—Maybe it doesn't seem extraordinary Susan Peters can hang in there, ride, swim, vacuum, clean her home, drive a car and enjoy a successful acting career.

Mrs. Peters says it's nothing to get excited about either, but the 35-year-old petite actress does all this from a wheel chair. Her legs were paralyzed four years ago in a hunting accident.

Mrs. Peters is in Toronto to play the lead in The Barretts of Wimpole Street opening last night. She expects to be on the road about seven months.

MANY ROLES—As a movie actress Miss Peters has played parts in Song of Russia, Assignment in Brittany, Tah, Young Ideas and was nominated for the Academy Award for her work in Hudson Harvest.

She has just finished two Hollywood actionists and expects to make more after a six months holiday she is taking in Europe later this year.

Miss Peters lost the use of her legs when her gun accidentally discharged on a hunting trip near San Diego, Cal.

It is believed that checkered career, and that checkers students, seeking a more complicated game, devised chess.

Cold-Catcher Is Paid For Hospital 'Holiday'

BLANKENBURG, England, Jan. 18.—(UPI)—British champion cold-catcher is Mrs. Mar Harworth, 46-year-old Blackburn, Lancashire, housewife.

For three years, the cheerful Lancashire woman has been a willing guinea pig in experiments at Harvard hospital, Salisbury. During this period, doctors have been trying to give her as bad a cold as possible, but Mrs. Harworth isn't worried.

"Friends laughed at me when I first went, but catching cold is nothing to the wonderful times I have had."

Mrs. Harworth said she received 33 shillings (about $3) at end of each holiday period, plus food and accommodation. She has also a self-contained, well-furnished bungalow.

It is an ideal holiday if you want complete rest and quiet. A health ministry official said there was plenty room for more volunteers for the job.

But at 65 cents a day spending money, there haven't been many takers!

WINNIPEG, Jan. 18.—(CP)—A 17-year-old youth told Winnipeg police court yesterday the home-made knuckleduster he was carrying was "for protection."

The juvenile, one of five youths to appear on witness-carrying charges, said he had been attacked on suspicion he was a member of a gang of hoodlums at a school session. He was remanded until today.

Louis vs. Dempsey May Come True

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 18.—(UPI)—The fight of the century—Jack Dempsey versus Joe Louis—may yet come off.

The bout, however, would be a movie version of the fight planned for the film.

Producer Maurice Duke announced Louis and Dempsey had agreed to appear in a picture tentatively titled, "The Fight of the Century."

A showdown match between the two champions would be the highlight of the picture.

THE Young Lions

By Irwin Shaw

Conclusion: In which the three "Young Lions" meet for the first time in the novel. The Americans drag with Noah Ackerman and Michael Whitacre are pushed into Germany and the end of the war is in sight. (Note: finish the story—)

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

HAIL AND FAREWELL

The men in the trucks felt quiet as they drove up to the open gates of the concentration camp. The smell, by itself, would have been enough to make them shiver, but there was also the sight of the dead bodies sprawled in the gas and behind the wire, and the slowly moving mass of scattered men in tattered striped suits who engulfed the trucks and Captain Green. Deep in a monstrous tide.

They did not make much noise. Many of them went up to them, tried to smile, although the objective appearance of their skulls and their staring, empty eyes did not alter very much, either in weeping or smiling.

Green ordered the trucks left where they were, with guards on either side, and let the Company slowly through the live-fire clutters of released prisoners, into the camp.

Michael and Noah were right behind Green when he went through the doorway of the first barracks. The door had been torn off and most of the windows had been broken open, but even so, the smell was beyond the tolerance of human nature. In the murky air, pierced imperfectly here and there by the dusty beams of spring light, Michael could see the piled, heavy forms. The worst thing was that from some of the men there was a momentary, fanatically waving arm, the slow lift of a pair of burning eyes in the blinking gloom, the pale twist of lips on skulls that seemed to have died many days before. In the doorway, a building, a form detached itself from a pile of rags and bones and started a slow advance on hands and knees toward Michael.

Services

Guaranteed

"There has never been a religious service for us in this place," a Rabbi said softly, "and so many thousands have gone . . ."

Green stood up. "I am going to guarantee something myself," he said to the Rabbi. "I am going to guarantee that you will hold your service in one hour in the square down there. I am also going to guarantee that there will be machine guns set up on the roof of this building. And I will further guarantee that anybody who attempts to interfere with your services will be fired on by those machine guns."

The Rabbi bowed gravely. "Thank you, very much, Sir," he said to Green.

Green looked at Noah. The old, controlled, rigidly calm expression was melting back into the boy's face.

"Ackerman," Green said crisply. "I don't think we'll need you around here for a couple of hours. Why don't you and Whitacre leave this place for awhile, go out and take a walk? Outside the camp. I'll do you good."

"Thank you, Sir," Noah said. He went out of the room.

Whitacre, Green was still staring out of window, and his voice was weary. "Whitacre, take care of him."

"Yes, Sir," said Michael. He went after Noah.

Christian and Noah broke five or six minutes before he heard the voices.

Then he heard the footsteps, coming in his direction along the road. He was only ten metres off the road, well concealed, but with them there the ground and ducked, slamming himself wildly against the side of the gully and turning his head. God, he thought. My face pressed against the soft damp earth. I remembered to count!

The explosion seemed to take a long time in coming. Michael could hear the bits of steel whirling over his head and thumping into the lives around him. There was a fluttering sound in the air as the torn leaves twisted down over him.

Michael wasn't sure, but he thought, with the noise of the explosion still in his ears, that he had heard a scream.

He climbed slowly out of the gully. His right arm was giving him a considerable amount of pain and the blood from his torn hand made the rifle slippery in his hand.

Michael walked slowly to the bush which he had seen waving. Slowly and steadily, he closed on a Christian dead.

Christian sat down deliberately, leaning against the trunk of the great tree, facing the direction from which he had come.

A grenade Christian thought, who would have thought of that? The clumsy American, "crashing like a bull into the gully . . . And then, out of the gully, a grenade.

Then he saw the American. The American wasn't cautious any more. He walked directly up to him, through the thin green sunlight.

The American was no longer young, and he didn't look like a soldier. The American stood over him.

Christian grinned. "Welcome to Germany," he said, remembering his English.

He watched the American lift his gun and prove the trigger.

Michael walked back to where he had left Noah. The breathing he had felt Noah. The breathing among the flowers. Michael started to walk back to him for a moment.

Then he picked Noah up, and lifting him over his shoulder, walked through the growing clump without stopping once, back to the camp. And he refused to allow any sea port.

OLD SALT with new flavor, is American Lt. Comdr. Arthur F. Whittier, who recently swapped his stripes and 36 years of naval duty for freshman's beanie. He will enter technical division of Norfolk College of William and Mary in Virginia to study business administration.

Margarine Forces Win Power Test

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Backers of straight-out repeal of United States oleomargarine taxes yesterday beat a substitute bill of 37 to 1 in a Senate test.

The margin indicated the oleomargarine repealers had control of the Senate and eventually would put through their measure, already passed by the House of Representatives.

The substitute bill would have repealed oleomargarine taxes, but would have banned shipment of yellow-colored, oleomargarine across state lines.

Argentine Wheat Reserve One Million

Seeks Machinery for Dollars In Exchange for Grain Export

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 18.—(RUP)—Agriculture experts estimate today that Argentina would have a saleable wheat reserve of 1,000,000 tons with which to dicker in international markets in this year.

The nation's total wheat harvest was expected to run between 3,000,000 and 3,500,000 tons, three-fifths of which would be used domestically.

This would leave, it was estimated, a saleable 2,500,000 tons, all but one million of which either been sold or earmarked for sale. Main customers are Iran, Italy, India, Germany and Japan, in that order.

A Spanish commission recently visited the Argentine in an attempt to implement old agreements without apparent results. Spain has been in need of food products before suffering this year's long drought, but has little to offer in finance, grains imports. She can offer only such non-essential luxury items as wine, leers and some citrus.

Those countries, such as Argentina, which have already stacked up a big trade balance in Spain are anxious to place their own exportable products where they will be to the most good. Argentine needs machinery, particularly farm mechanization. Spain cannot supply it.

With only 1,000,000 tons of wheat to sell, Argentina seeks a market in countries offering either dollars or the more essential manufacturer of products.

There are a few things such as olive oil which Canada could use from Spain, though she too has a longstanding trade balance.

Salmon Contract Last Food Deal Expected By U.K.

OTTAWA, Jan. 18.—(CP)—With the 1950 Anglo-Canadian salmon contract nearing completion, negotiators today gave more attention to working out terms for a new agreement on salmon.

Informed sources say that when the salmon contract is completed—possibly within the next week or two—it likely will be the final 1950 food deal between Canada and the U.K.

'Hat 50 Years Old MEDICINE HAT, Alta., Jan. 18.—(CP)—Plans for a celebration next July marking the 50th year of Medicine Hat's incorporation were announced here. They include a three-day stampede.
